Nehru, JFK Discuss Southeast Asia

Here To Talk Peace, Indian Leader Says

President, Visitor Fly To Washington From Newport, R.I.

WASHINGTON (AP) — India's Prime Minister Nehru, flying into town with President Kennedy, said Monday he is here to talk about the world's greatest need—peace.

After the two stepped out of Kennedy's plane, the 71-year-old prime minister turned to the American chief executive and said:

"Mr. President, I wish you all success in your efforts to maintain peace and freedom."

Nehru made a similar plea to Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow in September.

Kennedy responded warmly to Nehru's words, saying:

"I welcome you as a friend, a great world leader, and as one who has stood for the basic aspirations the United States stands for."

Formal Welcome

The formal welcome for the visitor took place at Andrews Air Force Base after Nehru flew with Kennedy from Newport, R.I., where they had conferred for about 3½ hours.

Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, and Mrs. Kennedy made the trip with them.

The Indian prime minister arrived in New York Sunday to begin a 10-day visit that will include California's Disneyland and a New York play.

President press secretary Pierre Salinger said the primary subject of the first Kennedy-Nehru talk at Newport was Southeast Asia.

There was a consideration of the situation in both Laos and South Viet Nam, where Communist guerrillas are waging a sustained attack on the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Salinger did not elaborate. But he said that Nehru also discussed a conversation he had held in New Delhi last month with special envoy Ambassador Averill Harriman, who heads the U.S. delegation at the 14-nation Geneva conference on Laos.

India Has Key Roles

India has been playing a key role at the Geneva conference, and is chairman of the new International Control Commission which will supervise the neutrality of Laos once a new government is formed. The control commission is now in Laos but its duties have not been completely defined because of a dispute between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union wants a weak control commission and the United States has urged a strong commission with authority to halt fighting wherever it may erupt. India has leaned toward the Soviet view.

Salinger said the talks between the two leaders will be continued Tuesday on an informal basis.

Train Strikes Truck; One Killed, 32 Hurt

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A fast passenger train hit a truck and jumped the tracks, killing the truck driver and injuring 32 passengers Monday.

Seventeen of the injured were sent to hospitals. The others were less seriously hurt and did not require hospitalization.

All five passenger cars and three locomotives of the Missouri Pacific train left the tracks in North Houston but did not overturn.

The dead man was Maxie Martin Whittington, 28, of Baton Rouge, La.

The train was the Texas Eagle. Ticket agent J. R. Burd said it left Houston 10 or 15 minutes behind schedule for St. Louis.

Atomic Test Moratorium Asked By U.N.

Assembly Ratifies Appeal Over West, Soviet Opposition

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Despite opposition of the world's four nuclear powers, the General Assembly Monday called for immediate renewal of an unexpired moratorium on nuclear weapons tests.

The vote on the proposal made by India and five other powers was 71-20 with 8 abstentions.

The assembly ratification of the appeal for a renewed moratorium came only a few hours after the main political committee, over vigorous Soviet opposition, approved a call for immediate resumption of negotiations on an ironclad nuclear weapons test ban under a foolproof and non-vetoable control and inspection system.

Western Powers Oppose

The Western powers opposed the Indian-originated demand for a new moratorium on grounds that Russia used the recent voluntary abstention from tests for almost three years to prepare for its current, unprecedented series of explosions. A moratorium, they felt, could not be enforced without inspection and control.

Russia opposed a new moratorium because it insists that a nuclear test ban can be considered only as part of an overall agreement on general and complete disarmament.

Resolution Ratified

Despite this advance assurance that a moratorium call would not be honored, the assembly ratified the resolution previously passed by the political committee in a 72-21 vote with 8 abstentions.

Voting against the moratorium measure in the assembly were Albania, Australia, Bulgaria, Byelorussia, China, Czechoslovakia, France, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Luxembourg, Mongolia, Poland, Portugal, Romania, South Africa, the Ukraine, the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States.

Abstainers were Afghanistan, Belgium, Cuba, Haiti, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Spain and Turkey.

63 Feared Dead As Blast Sinks British Vessel

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI)—Explosion and fire sent the British freighter Clan Keith to the bottom of the storm-lashed Mediterranean Sea off the coast of Tunisia early Monday. There were only five known survivors among its 68 officers and crewmen.

The 7,129-ton vessel, carrying a cargo of vegetable oil, sank during the night about 20 miles offshore in the vicinity of Cap Serrat.

A distress signal, picked up by the American freighter Jean, sent ships and planes racing to the scene. But rescue operations were hindered by rough seas, high winds and frequent rain squalls.

The Tunisian maritime radio station reported that five survivors were plucked from the raging seas by the British freighter Durham Trader. A spokesman said the freighter also picked up the bodies of three other crewmen while two more bodies were recovered by a Finnish tanker.

Ghana's President Sets Self Up As Clay Pigeon

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — President Kwame Nkrumah will expose himself to his political foes Tuesday with a trial run over the route Queen Elizabeth II will take on her state visit Thursday.

If Nkrumah's enemies make no attempt on his life and there are no other serious disturbances, the royal tour will go on as scheduled, reliable sources said.

The dictatorial president, whose foes set off two bombs in this capital Saturday, himself proposed the trial run in an obvious effort to assure nervous Britain that the queen will be safe, informants said.

The bombings sent new waves of uneasiness through London and brought the Commonwealth relations secretary, Duncan Sandys, flying here for a last-minute check. Sandys will accompany Nkrumah on the ride.

Bel-Air Mansion Collapses In Flames

N.Y. and Jersey Elections Top Off-Year Slate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

National political figures will be watching the voters of New Jersey and New York City Tuesday for possible trends that could carry over into nationwide balloting in 1962 and 1964.

The governor's race in New Jersey is considered a good political barometer since the state has switched back and forth between the two major parties for the past decade. It was counted in President Kennedy's column by the narrowest of margins in 1960. An Eisenhower Republican is matched against a Democrat who has the backing of the New Frontier.

Interest centers on an intra-party feud in the New York City mayoral contest — a race where Republicans usually provide little more than token opposition. This time Republicans hope to make a strong showing with State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, who is challenging Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner's bid for a third term.

Wagner has the backing of Kennedy but state Democratic Chairman Michael H. Prendergast has thrown his support to City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa, a Democrat running as an independent.

Wagner is heavily favored despite the party split.

The New Jersey battle, featuring James P. Mitchell vs. Richard J. Hughes, and the New York City contest overshadow dozens of other elections around the country—most of them having strong local appeal but attracting little attention nationwide.

Mitchell, a Republican, was secretary of labor under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for almost eight years and he received personal aid from Eisenhower during the campaign. Both Kennedy and former President Harry S. Truman visited the state to stump for Hughes.

Virginia To Elect New Governor Today

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The mildest campaign for governor of Virginia in a dozen years was expected to draw fewer than one-third of the state's eligible voters to the polls Tuesday.

The prospect of scattered showers threatened to further cut into the turnout.

H. Clyde Pearson, 36-year-old attorney from the hills of southwest Virginia, sought to become the state's first Republican governor since post Civil War days.

Pearson raised a barrage of issues in eight weeks of vigorous campaigning but failed to provoke a response in kind from his opponent, Albert S. Harrison, 54-year-old attorney general and 30-year stalwart of the ruling Democratic organization of Sen. Harry F. Byrd.

Fire Again Hits 'Constellation'

4 Dead, 9 Hurt In Flattop Blaze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fire swept the aircraft carrier Constellation for the second time in its fledgling Navy career Monday, killing four and injuring nine.

Navy spokesmen in Washington said the flames were touched off by a leak in the fuel system which sprayed diesel oil on an 1,100-degree steam line.

The accident occurred as the ship steamed northward in the Atlantic on her shakedown cruise.

The hard-luck craft, victim of the worst shipyard fire in U.S. naval history last year, was reported enroute to New York and expected to dock at Brooklyn Navy Yard at 3:15 p.m. EST, Tuesday.

Monday night the Navy identified the dead and their next of kin as:

Machinist Mate 1-C Bennie Crews; wife, Ruth J. Crews, Neptune Beach, Fla.

Fireman Louis F. Lynch; mother, Mrs. Christine Lynch, Passaic, N.J.

Alfred Steinbuch, a civilian employee of the New York Naval Ship Yard; wife, Mary Steinbuch, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Eugene Miller, also a civilian; father, Joseph Miller, Laurelton, Queens, N.Y.

The Navy said only one of the nine injured men — all Navy personnel — was hurt seriously. No list of the injured was released immediately.

A Navy spokesman said the fire broke out at 3:35 p.m. EST and was completely out 29 minutes later. By 7 p.m. the ship was about 240 miles southwest of Ambrose lightship, enroute to New York.

One of the civilian victims of the fire was reported missing at first, but was found dead later. Last Dec. 19, fire raced through the Constellation at the Brooklyn Naval Shipyard killing 50 men and injuring 425. The vessel was about 85 per cent complete at the time but its construction was delayed some seven months.

The 75,000-ton attack carrier finally was commissioned last Oct. 27. Its skipper is Capt. Thomas J. Walker, a 45-year-old Navy aviator.

Adenauer, the only chancellor postwar Germany has had, will get a fourth term if he receives 250 votes, a majority in the Bundestag, the lower house. His own party and its coalition partners, the conservative Free Democrats, command 309 votes.

Four Killed In Crash Of Navy Patrol Plane

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — Four bodies were found Monday in the wreckage of a Navy anti-submarine plane which crashed in a remote heavily timbered area south of here.

Red Fence Goes As Berlin Police Wage Gas Battle

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police and East German border guards engaged in a tear gas battle Monday as West Berlin workmen tore down a 300-yard Communist-built wire fence along the border.

The exchange started after the workmen, accompanied by 12 West Berlin policemen and a French officer, refused the East German guards' order to leave the fence, which was a foot inside Western territory.

Monday night the Navy identified the dead and their next of kin as:

Machinist Mate 1-C Bennie Crews; wife, Ruth J. Crews, Neptune Beach, Fla.

Fireman Louis F. Lynch; mother, Mrs. Christine Lynch, Passaic, N.J.

100 Damaged; Nixon, Movie Figures Flee

Holocaust Sweeps Plush Bel-Air Area; Disaster Declared

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The most damaging brush fire in Southern California history roared through its richest residential district Monday, burning hundreds of homes.

By official count 186 homes — many mansions in the $100,000 and up class — were destroyed by mid-afternoon. At least another 100 were damaged as wind-lashed flames, becoming dread "fire storms" at times, swept the Hollywood Hills.

The scene was the movie star-studded luxury community of Bel-Air and surrounding suburbs.

Hundreds were evacuated, including former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and many entertainment notables.

Movie studios dismissed performers who live in the region so they could remove belongings, or water their roofs.

Flames broke out at 9 a.m. near the crest of the hills, which separate West Los Angeles from the San Fernando Valley.

Then, whipped by 40-mile-an-hour desert gusts, they raced down the slopes through narrow, brush-choked canyons lined with homes.

Disaster Declared

Southern California's worst previous fires consumed 67 homes at Malibu in 1956 and 66 near Topanga in 1958.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown declared it a disaster area.

Fire Inspector Lee Zitzko said after a tour of the scene that he found these losses: 45 homes on Rosemead, 12 on Stradella, 87 on Chantilly and Chalon roads, 12 on Bel-Air Road, 30 on Bundy Drive.

Great walls of flame raced through canyon after canyon.

The blaze broke near the crest of the hills and roared down toward the swank Bel-Air development.

It spurted across Sepulveda Boulevard, into a completely new district, threatening hundreds more homes.

The city called it the worst disaster in local annals and rushed in hundreds of men and scores of pieces of equipment. By mid-afternoon, 6,000 acres were charred.

New Fire Breaks Out

A few miles west in Topanga Canyon, a new fire burst out. It swept 1,000 acres in the first hour and raced on, completely uncontrolled. It posed no immediate threat to structures.

The $100,000 Bel-Air area colonial home of Producer Walter Wanger was among those burned. Nearby, an unidentified woman was reported to have saved two expensive original paintings—a Van Gogh and a Utrillo—just before her home went up.

Nixon was alone at his eight-room English Tudor rented home on N. Bundy Drive when his neighborhood was ordered evacuated. He worked on a book until flames drew near, and later said

New Hurricane Endangers Ship

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Jenny, tenth tropical storm of the season, blew up in the Central Atlantic Monday, endangering a disabled ship near Bermuda.

The first advisory on the storm, issued by the Miami Weather Bureau at 5 p.m. EST, located the storm center near latitude 28.4 north, longitude 53.3 west, or about 740 miles east-southeast of Bermuda.

The storm, with top winds of hurricane force (75 miles per hour), was moving west at 18 mph. It was expected to move west-northwest at about the same or slightly slower speed through the night.

Winds of gale force were expected to strike Monday night in the mid Atlantic area where the New Orleans-bound ore carrier S. S. Venore was disabled.

The 8,561-ton carrier, owned by Bethlehem Steel Corp., broke a drive shaft and lost a propeller about 850 miles east of Bermuda Monday.

Patton Gets OEP Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Emergency Planning named William D. Patton of Johnstown, Pa., Monday to direct its Area 2 office in Olney, Md.

Frank B. Ellis, OEP director, said Patton's territory will include Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Humphrey Sees Berlin War Danger Reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey said Monday he believes the danger of war over Berlin has been reduced but not eliminated.

The Minnesota senator, just back from abroad, said the Western Allies now must work out "a common purpose, common policy" under which to negotiate with Russia on the German problem.

"A matter of the highest priority," he said, is for President Kennedy and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to confer now that a new West German government appears to have been formed.

"We must get a common policy among ourselves," Humphrey told newsmen. "Then we are in a political position to sit down with Russia. Until then, we shouldn't sit down with them at all."

Negotiation on any other basis "is to invite trouble and mistakes," he added.

Humphrey said he felt the danger of fighting over Berlin had been lessened by the fact that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev tightened his hold on Communist leadership during the recent Soviet Party Conference. "I don't think anyone in his right mind wants war," he said.

The assistant Democratic leader made the remarks at a news conference following his return from a five-week, 13-nation trip to Europe and the Middle East.

Four-Church Merger Conference Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Officials of the United Presbyterian Church U.S.A., and the Protestant Episcopal Church Monday invited the Methodist Church and the United Church of Christ to attend talks aimed at the eventual merger of the four groups.

The combined churches would have a total membership of almost 20 million persons. The Methodist Church and the United Church of Christ were expected to accept the invitation to talks here next April.

One of the world's worst volcanic tragedies was the frightful eruption of Mount Pelee on Martinique in 1902. Some 28,000 persons were killed.

Conferees Told Education Best Fire Preventive

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Delegates to a Maryland Fire prevention conference were told Monday they face a "never-ending job" of informing the public what it's all about.

"You must keep eternally at it if you expect to get results," said Joseph M. Transue of Philadelphia, director of security for the Philco Corp. "Without leadership plans, control and education—particularly education—you're going to get nowhere."

Transue was the principal speaker at the opening of a two-day annual Governor's Conference on Fire Prevention. The 3rd annual session, being held at the State House, had drawn a record 239 delegates.

They represent fire departments, industries, business establishments, state institutions, private hospitals, boards of education, military establishments and federal and state agencies.

The delegates split into six major workshop groups for tackling all phases of fire prevention and will make reports at Tuesday's windup of the conference.

Earlier Gov. Tawes had told the delegates that a six per cent reduction in fire insurance rates announced for Maryland last week were "clear and irrefutable indication" that the state was making progress in fire prevention.

But he said it was no time for self-satisfaction and that the state and its citizens should "leave no stone unturned in our endeavor to safeguard the lives and property of the people of Maryland."

Pa. Film Censor Appeal Rebuffed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court let stand Monday a decision that Pennsylvania's 1959 movie censorship law is unconstitutional.

The one-line order denying an appeal, without comment, accepted the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's ruling that the statute violates freedom of speech and press, and due process of law.

The Pennsylvania court had made a major point that such a censorship law providing stiff criminal penalties violated the right of trial by jury.

The Supreme Court accepted also the argument that the Pennsylvania ruling does not conflict with the court's decision of last Jan. 23 that states and communities may censor motion pictures.

Peace Corps And Nigerians Reconciliated

IBADAN, Nigeria (AP)—Nigerian students at Ibadan University College, where the row started over the Margery Michelmores postcard, have now resumed friendly relations with U.S. Peace Corps members.

Miss Michelmores left Nigeria Oct. 18 to return to the United States after dropping a postcard she had written home and containing comments about living conditions in this country. The remaining 36 Peace Corps members continued their special training at Ibadan University College. They will take up teaching appointments throughout Nigeria early next year.

Abidoye Babalola, the new president of the student body, said the students have resumed "friendly and cordial relations with the Peace Corps. This is good and I hope it will continue."

Babalola was addressing the students' representative council, the governing body of the student union.

The meeting was attended by Principal Dr. Kenneth Dike, a Nigerian and the college registrar. Their presence was interpreted as giving added weight to Babalola's public statements.

Babalola said he hoped the Peace Corps members had learned from the postcard incident "an important lesson about how Nigerians react to insult and ridicule and that having suffered from this incident they will be more discreet about what they say, write and think about us."

Comedian Red Skelton's Bel-Air home was reported burned. Actress Jane Russell and husband Bob Waterfield, coach of football's Los Angeles Rams, had aides remove personal effects from their home on the crest of the hills.

Maxine and Laverne Andrews, of the singing Andrews sisters, evacuated.

Others reported evacuating or considering it: Peggy Lee, Ginger Rogers, Alfred Hitchcock, James Garner, Eric Ambler, Jascha Heifetz, Kim Novak, actor Barry Coe, composer Meredith Willson.

All available police were mobilized to prevent looting.

Fire Commissioner Herbert Glaser said after a visit: "It's purgatory down there. It was terrible. Here were hysterical women crying for help. Police and firemen got them out."

Billowing white smoke shrouded the area: Orange flames leaped hundreds of feet into the air. A pall of smoke spread far out over the Los Angeles Basin, visible to millions.

Residents on many streets were evacuated just ahead of the flames. The Bel-Air Hotel also was cleared. Hundreds of children from five schools, including Mt. St. Mary's College, also were moved out. The evacuation was helter-skelter but there was no major panic.

FBI Returns Slaying Suspect To Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joseph Alvey, a 41-year-old resident of Miami's 50-cent-a-night flophouses, was returned to Baltimore by FBI agents Monday and lodged in the Baltimore City Jail.

Alvey agreed Sunday, in the Florida city, to return here to stand trial in the kidnap killing of a 7-year-old boy a year ago. He readily admitted he is the man the FBI wants in the kidnaping of Michael Joseph Condetti of Washington, D. C.

Michael's partly nude body was found in a wooded area near Ardmore, Prince Georges County, Nov. 17, 1960. He had left his home in a northeast Washington neighborhood to go to a drug store when he disappeared.

Presumably the next step in Baltimore would be to seek an indictment from the federal grand jury.

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers National Chrysler Council Monday night approved a new three-year contract which

The 105-council delegates, representing 60,000 workers in 46 Chrysler plants, heard a daylong report on the contract and then by a substantial margin voted to recommend membership ratification.

Baxter family amazed to find telephone saves $65 in two weeks

Mrs. Baxter makes a call on the phone that kept her in close touch with Gail while Gail was in Miami representing Maryland in the Miss United States Contest.

We recently asked Mrs. Robert E. Baxter, of High Point, to keep a two-week telephone "diary" of all her family's telephone calls—estimating the time, travel and money each call saved. At the end of two weeks, her "diary" showed that their phone calls had saved 42 valuable hours, 799 miles of travel and $65.

"What an enlightening experience this has been," says Mrs. Baxter. "We never dreamed our little Princess phone could save such an amazing amount of time and money."

Mrs. Baxter said that their telephone is important in other ways, too. "While my daughter was in Miami for the Miss United States Contest, my one request was that she call home each night."

What would a telephone "diary" show in your home? Chances are you'd find, too, that your phone gives you back far more than its low monthly cost.

"I understand about 200 people from Delaware will test the restaurants in that state from the Maryland line of the (Delaware) Memorial Bridge," said Julius Hobson, eastern field secretary for CORE, which is sponsoring the demonstration.

Of the 56 miles of U.S. 40 from Baltimore to the bridge, which takes traffic across the Delaware River into New Jersey, 17 are in Delaware. The road is a favorite route of diplomats traveling between Washington and New York. Several instances of restaurants refusing to serve African diplomats led to CORE scheduling the freedom ride.

It is being staged in an attempt to force integration of motels and restaurants along the highway. CORE has said up to 1,000 "riders" will attempt to get service at the establishments.

"We are going ahead with our plans for the ride," Hobson said, reiterating that it would be held "unless the restaurants desegregate before Saturday."

The Negro leader said participants are coming from as far away as California to test the facilities for discrimination.

"We have more people than cars," he said. "That's our problem. There will be about 500 to 600 people from Baltimore taking part. About the same number will come from Washington. There are other groups from Virginia to Connecticut."

Hobson also called the planned freedom ride a "silly venture," expressing hope the restaurants would integrate in time to prevent it.

"We don't want to waste human resources, manpower and time in this silly venture," he said. "We waste so much time in this country doing silly things like this. Negroes and whites have stood side by side in this country for 300 years. Nobody's been bitten yet."

"We're not talking about Negro hoodlums going into these restaurants. You don't see white hoodlums in them. But we don't see why decent people, who don't rough up the place, can't go in, sit down and have a sandwich and a cup of coffee — or even a dinner."

Maryland State Police will meet with Baltimore County law enforcement officers Tuesday to discuss policing the freedom ride. Police magistrates in jurisdictions bordering U.S. 40 have been asked to be available for police work.

Baltimore County police have said magistrates will ride in patrol cars to swear out warrants if asked by restaurant owners. Magistrates then could accept bail and release arrested persons on the spot. A fleet of buses will be available to carry defendants to courts if necessary.

The commander of Maryland's State Police, Col. Carey Jarman, has said he anticipates no real difficulty.

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Two candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor, George P. Mahoney of Baltimore County and David Hume of Charles County, will debate reapportionment Nov. 29 at this Montgomery County town.

Hume had proposed earlier a televised public debate on all issues of the campaign, but Mahoney turned him down. Their meeting this month will not be televised, and will be limited to the topic of reapportionment of the General Assembly.

The Potomac Democratic Club, sponsoring the event, said it would be held at 8:30 p.m. at the Walter Johnson High School on the northwest edge of Bethesda.

Gov. Tawes was also invited but he declined the invitation, saying: "I do not believe... my present status is such as to justify my acceptance of invitations to take part in future discussions of issues with... Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination."

Secrets Of Charm

Keys To Night-Blooming Beauty

The nightmares that are perpe- trated in the name of beauty are completely unnecessary and dia- bolically contrived.

Here's the Powers Girl way to retire pretty . . . sleep pretty . . . and wake up fresh and glowing!

Eradicate make-up with cleanser; remove with tissues. Follow with a thorough "fingertip" wash- ing of mild soap and warm water; rinse thoroughly and pat dry.

Apply the thinnest layer of a night-care lotion if your skin is oily, or a lubricant if your skin is dry. Sparingly applied, your skin will get all the night-com- plexion dress it needs with nary a visible trace after just a few moments. What a pretty contrast you are to the members of the thick-coat-of-grease school!

Lipstick comes next. Yes, you wear it all night long and it looks as smooth in the morning as when you apply it. Furthermore, when it's a pure, lanolin-based lipstick it's an important part of your beauty care because it keeps the skin of your lips from becoming wrinkled — soft, as it should be.

Use a delicate pink or coral pastel shade. Apply two coats, blotting between each; you'll find your lipstick on your lips when you awaken instead of on your pillow.

Dress your hair in your favorite style. Brush it thoroughly; comb and coax it into place until it is as well-groomed as you'd want it for an important occasion. Then insert pins in the strategic waves to hold them firmly in place for the night.

Squeeze your hair with the palms of your hands, moving con- trariwise from the center of your forehead to the middle of the back of your head. This works like magic, making the thousands of short hairs blend with the longer ones to lock your hair style per- fectly in place for the night. Cap your lovely head with a ribbon, a contour net or veiling. You'll go to sleep and awaken looking like your loveliest self!

Fire Damages Stone House Near Frostburg

FROSTBURG—Historic old Stone House, located about ten miles west of Frostburg on property adjacent to the intersection of Routes 40 and 219, was damaged today by fire, apparently resulting from the use of one of its antiquated fireplaces over the weekend.

The building, purchased about six months ago by Mrs. Lu Hu Chuen Ball, Chinese wife of Col. Clinton F. Ball, of Washington, has been undergoing restoration by the new owner who, with her husband, has been living in it on weekends.

Apparently the couple built a fire in the second-floor fireplace Sunday, and, according to Grantsville volunteer firemen who answered the alarm about 9 a. m., some of the hot coals slipped beneath the floor boards.

Janet Bittinger, who resides with caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warnick, in the historic house, discovered the blaze this morning and notified the fire department. Damage was kept to a minimum.

The dwelling is on the site of Camp Little Meadows, the fourth stop made by Col. Edward Braddock on his march from Fort Cumberland to Pittsburgh in 1755. Stones from the camp compose some of the Stone House construction.

The house also was used as a stop for stagecoaches along the old National Road.

Internationally Famous Dancer Appears At FSTC

FROSTBURG — Internationally known dancer, Teresa, and her company will perform in Compton auditorium at Frostburg State Teachers College under the auspices of the assembly committee, November 13, at 8 p. m.

Teresa and her company of eight dancers, singers and musicians come directly from Spain. They will present several performances from the fiery Flamenco to the dramatic works of Garcia Lorca and to the first Spanish dance production of Bach Inventions.

The company is avoiding the usual repertoire of folklore from the various provinces and is striving to reflect the individual attitudes of the Spanish soul.

Teresa, of pure Spanish blood, began dancing at a very early age under the direction of the best teachers of Spain. She made her debut at Carnegie Hall in New York City at the age of 15 as a featured soloist.

Dancing with Lusillo, Teresa formed a company of Spanish Ballet with him as partner. Later she met and married musical conductor, Werner Torkanowsky.

For the past several years, Teresa has appeared as guest artist for concert tours in America and Europe. She is now concentrating on her select Compania Espanola.

In addition to dancing and being a choreographer, she is supervisor of everything connected with the costumes and decor. Her full name is Teresa de Jesus Viera Romero Viera.

Julio Piedra was engaged by Teresa and her Compania Espanola in 1969 as the premier dancer. He began dancing as the result of winning a scholarship to study the Spanish Dance in Buenos Aires. He completed his studies in Madrid. He was seen and engaged by Lusillo as a soloist.

Other dancers in the company include Sandra Contreras from Mexico and Pilar Avila, who studied classical and Flamenco dancing in Seville, Madrid and Barcelona. Pilar came to the attention of Teresa while appearing in New York City.

Partial Payments Made On Tax Bills

Citizens who pay all or part of their 1961 taxes before December 31 will save interest costs and escape a 50-cent service charge made for preparing delinquent tax notices, according to Mrs. Lucile Roeder, finance commissioner.

Many citizens who were unable to pay all taxes before the interest-free deadline have been making partial payments.

They, of course, will continue to pay interest only on the unpaid balance, and will not receive the delinquent notices.

One per cent interest is being charged on bills which are paid through November 21. The rate goes up to 1½ per cent on November 22.

City Approves New Order On Snow Removal

(List of Streets on Page 10)

The Mayor and Council yesterday passed one part of its snow removal plans pertaining to traffic but tabled for a week another ordinance for removal of snow from sidewalks.

The street ordinance as approved unanimously provides that from November 1 to April 15 each year, whenever snow falls to a depth of one inch in any 24 hour period, it will be unlawful to park vehicles except for loading and unloading on 100 streets or portions thereof.

Vehicles found in violation, may be removed by order of any police officer under ordinance in effect covering the removal and towing of vehicles.

The new ordinance also makes it unlawful for any vehicle to be operated during such a period unless equipped with snow tires or chains if the operation results in a vehicle becoming stuck or interfering with normal flow of traffic on the designated streets. Any person violating provisions of the ordinance, upon arrest and conviction, can be fined not less than $5 nor more than $10 and, in default, committed to Allegany County Jail for not less than one day nor more than 30 days.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder asked Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming if the Police Department would go along with the ordinance. Fleming replied the ordinance has been discussed thoroughly at a staff meeting and it is believed to be a step in the right direction. Mrs. Roeder said she would prefer to have the alternate side of the street parking plan in the ordinance but since something is needed, she would vote for the ordinance.

The ordinance governing removal of snow from sidewalks and footways would allow the tenant or property owner to shovel snow from the walkways and throw it into the street. Only snow from sidewalks and no other private property could be shoveled into the street.

This is a departure from the previous ordinance which called for clearing half the sidewalk and piling removed snow on the other half, keeping it out of the street. This proved unworkable because snow melted and formed ice on the sidewalks.

The proposal was tabled after

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said he could not see the reason for it and "It doesn't make sense. On the one hand, you are taking cars off the street so you can clean it, then throwing snow back into the street from sidewalks," he said.

Light said the shoveling of snow from sidewalks into the street created a problem last year.

Commissioner of Streets John J. Long then proposed that council table the sidewalk snow ordinance for a week to enable street crews to discuss it further.

Under its provisions, within six hours after the fall of any snow, occupants of buildings or owners of vacant lots on every street and alley, must clean away all snow to make a pedestrian passage-way.

Violation would bring, upon arrest and conviction, a fine of not less than $10 and additional fines of $10 a day for each day snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalk after conviction.

The ordinance also denies the police magistrate power to suspend or reduce the fine provided.

Book Dealer Plans Defense

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — The attorney for a Montgomery County book dealer indicated Monday he'll go to great lengths to try to prove the novel "Tropic of Cancer" by Henry Miller is not obscene.

Harvey Rosenberg, attorney for book dealer Samuel Yudkin, told Montgomery County Circuit Court he will file a series of motions based on constitutional issues and several statements by out-of-state literary authorities on the merits of Miller's book.

Rosenberg revealed his plans while objecting to Judge Thomas M. Anderson's setting of Dec. 5 for the trial of Yudkin, who pleaded innocent to charges of possession and sale of an indecent book. Anderson refused to change the date.

Rosenberg said he needs more time to prepare a case and to await the outcome of his previous motion to remove State's Atty Leonard T. Kardy from the case. Rosenberg said Kardy has made a statement about "Tropic of Cancer" and should not represent the state in the case.

City Collector George E. Davis reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday that collections during November totaled $979,435.83.

Incentive-Killers For Drug Business

The patent right has been considered a Constitutional right enjoying every protection of law. But that right, in the case of ethical drugs, is threatened with dilution by a bill sponsored by Sen. Estes Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee.

The proposed legislation would reduce exclusive rights to drug patents from 17 to three years. Kefauver's purpose is to put a stop to "unreasonable and excessive" drug prices. There's no quarrel with the purpose, but the Senator's method appears to approach the problem through the rear entrance.

But Kefauver's approach is timid compared to the recommendation of Dr. Colston E. Warne, economics professor at Amherst College and president of Consumers Union. Dr. Warne told the subcommittee that protection of patents on drugs should be completely eliminated.

The basic reason for the patent laws is to stimulate invention. In exchange for publication of discovery, the inventor properly receives protection for his invention. Remove this right and incentive goes also. If it were not for patent laws, many drugs Warne says he holds as dear as air and water might never have been found.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Fallout

Perhaps the most significant fact about the fallout is that no one can guarantee precisely where it will fall. The huge cloud that is crossing Siberia must settle on parts of Red China as well as on other parts of the world. The Chinese are not only irked but frightened by the butchery of Khrushchev and they are alerting their people to the dangers that face them. This may be a cause for hysterical anti-Sovietism.

The geography of northern Asia needs to be studied very carefully to understand what the Russians are doing. The bombs are being exploded in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya which lies closest to the Arctic Ocean. Soviet Russia is using the tundra for its explosions to avoid affecting its own more densely populated area.

The cloud of fallout moves southward to Mongolia and therefore must settle on the northern provinces of Red China. The Mongolian cities lie in both Russia and China, although Mongolia lies between Turkistan and Manchuria. Whereas the Russians might say that this area is not densely populated, it is impossible to guarantee that the fallout will not drop down on Manchuria and the northern provinces of China which are very densely settled. Manchuria particularly has absorbed a large population during the past century.

To the west of the cloud lie Sweden and Greenland and it is the Russian objective that some of the fallout will cross the North Pole into American territory. The likelihood is that it will cross Kamchatka to Alaska across Canada with a tail flying over the United States. American weather is made in Siberia and in the entire area affected by the Russian explosions.

Strontium 90 and other radioactive chemicals formed by the explosions of nuclear weapons are chemicals which do not ordinarily exist in nature but which come into existence as a result of these explosions. These chemicals are very damaging to all that lives upon the Earth because they convert both living and inert matter into radioactive material.

The chemicals remain in the atmosphere after explosion, slowly moving in the form of a cloud. When the chemicals settle on rain clouds, they come down to Earth and penetrating the soil, they pollute it. The crops that grow in such polluted soil become poisonous and when eaten by animals that consume the crops, poison the animals, so that cows give off radioactive milk and meat which can have permanent devastating effects upon the human beings who consume these commodities.

Geneticists are not yet absolutely sure as to the genealogical effects of Strontium 90 on human beings, but it is believed that if consumed in sufficient quantities, it will so affect the genes that an entirely new race will be procreated. Much of the discussion on this subject is theoretical and cannot be substantiated by evidence. However, distinguished geneticists hold firmly to their theories and laymen must accept their statements until they have better information, as the subject is extremely technical and most of us do not quite understand it.

This then is what the term fallout means and it is naturally a cause for considerable fear and disturbance. Until the subject has been proved absolutely, no one can say what the effect of the fallout will be and how much radioactive fallout must drop down to do real damage. The amount varies with different reports.

At this moment, it must be said that Soviet Russia achieves no purpose in exploding bombs. These are not scientific experiments. While they do frighten the masses of any country, governments know that we are far ahead of the Russians in atomic developments.

The explosions are acts of terrorism and from that standpoint are a new kind of warfare—warfare by terrorism. The target is not fixed and actually cannot be fixed, which means that whereas bombs may be exploded anywhere, the end result of the explosion is a puzzle to the shooter and to the victim. The final target could well be the shooter who thus commits suicide on a vast scale. In fact, there are unconfirmed reports that this has happened already.

It is for this reason that so many advocate the elimination of all nuclear weapons. Except as a means for producing terror, so far as we now positively know, they serve no purpose.

'Looks As Though He's Beyond Saving'

King Tarquin's Rule Continues To Apply

TEHERAN

One ancient story that has a sharp point nowadays is the legend of King Tarquin and the Sibylline books.

In the earliest days of Rome, when Tarquin ruled the city that would one day rule the world, the Cumaean sibyl, chief prophetess of Italy, came to him with nine books. Naming a great price, she offered him these volumes which, she said, held the whole future of Rome. Thinking the price too high, he sent her away.

A little later, the sibyl returned to Tarquin. But now she offered only six books. Three had been burned, she said, but those which remained still held Rome's future; and she asked the same price for six as she had asked for the nine. Outraged, Tarquin again expelled her from his palace.

But on reflection the king became increasingly uncomfortable. The price demanded was indeed very great, but was not any price worth paying to know Rome's future? At length, the sibyl came a fourth time, carrying only three books and still demanding the old price of the nine.

"If you would know Rome's future," she said, fixing the uneasy king with her dark, god-drunken eyes, "buy now and do not haggle; for it is your last chance."

This time Tarquin paid the price the sibyl asked. And the historic Sibylline books—the antique prophetic texts consulted by the Roman augurs in moments of great danger to the city, down to the time of Julius Caesar and beyond—were reputed to be these same volumes which Tarquin bought from the sibyl in such peculiar circumstances.

Teheran airport, bleak in the pale light of dawn, may seem to be an odd place to be thinking about the story of how King Tarquin had to pay the same price in the end for only one-third of what he might have had in the first instance. But remembering Tarquin's final bargain is really highly appropriate, at this threatened halfway point between Saigon and threatened Berlin.

In Tehran, as in Saigon and Berlin, the lines of the cold war can easily be broken by the remorseless pressures directed from the Kremlin. To be sure, the danger in Iran is less immediate and grave than it is in South Vietnam. Barring the unforeseen, there is no likelihood of a Communist success here within a matter of months. But if the price is not paid for warding off the threat to Saigon, one can be very sure indeed that Teheran will be among the most important places which will be next on 'the list.'

In truth, if any moral at all emerges from the melancholy history of the years since the Second World War, it is the moral that paying the price at the first asking always secures a better bargain. What may be called King Tarquin's rule has constantly proved to be applicable, although the free nations of the Western Alliance, disliking the heavy prices that history exacts, have regularly deferred payment until the bargain had fearfully deteriorated.

FEDERAL WORKERS—On the insistence of President Kennedy, federal government agencies have stopped seeking deferments for many of their employees about to be recalled into the armed services because of the Berlin crisis. Kennedy learned shortly after reactivation of Reserve Units was ordered that some agencies were making representations to the Pentagon to keep affected personnel in their present jobs.

The Federal Aviation Agency and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were two of the greatest offenders. Both agencies claimed they played such a vital role in defense that their key personnel could not be spared for military duty at this time.

When Kennedy caught wind of this, he issued a memorandum to the Defense Department, saying that government workers should not be deferred unless they were absolutely essential to the national security in the present jobs.

The Defense Department has been quietly circulating Kennedy's order to the top echelon of other government agencies and asking their whole-hearted co-operation. The result has been that requests for deferments of government employees have fallen off sharply.

Government insiders claim that the President had more in mind than federal personnel when he issued his order. They claim that Kennedy didn't want to have wholesale deferments in government create the impression that federal employees were a privileged class which did not have to experience the hardships imposed by his own administration.

WASHINGTON — A Negro letter carrier in Savannah, Georgia, may tip the scales in the election of the Governor of New Jersey today.

There's a twofold lesson to be learned from this long-distance piece of politics: 1. Names mean a lot on election day; 2. The NAACP has cultivated the habit of kicking its best friends in the teeth.

The case of W. W. Law, the Savannah postman who spearheads the NAACP in that area, and the manner in which he was almost, but not quite, ousted from the postal service, is already pretty well known around the USA. What isn't well known is the political reverberations it has caused in New Jersey and the manner in which the NAACP has been drubbing the man who has given a better break to Negro postmen than any other Postmaster General in history.

The whole inside story is an interesting lesson in how to chastise your friends and how to win elections.

It so happens that Postmaster General J. Edward Day has made a Negro, Herbert Waddy, Assistant Postmaster of Washington, D. C., for the first time a Negro has held such a high post in history. He has also made a Negro, Christopher Scott, Deputy Assistant Postmaster General for the first time in history. Scott, with a salary of $18,500, is one of the highest paid government servants below cabinet status. Day has also made Henry McGee, another Negro, personnel director for the Chicago area, the highest position ever held by a Negro in the postal field service.

Punish Your Friends

Day has also made a Negro, Mrs. James Avery, postmaster of a first class post office — in Pacoima, Calif. — for the first time in history. There are about 10,000 first class post offices in the United States but no Negro in 185 years has even held one of these jobs until day appointed Mrs. Avery.

Finally, the Postmaster General has appointed Henry Dickson, a Negro, as employee relations officer in Washington and has given freer opportunity for Negroes to be promoted to supervisory positions in the postal service.

However, when he goofed in regard to the Savannah letter carrier, W. W. Law, the full publicity force of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was leveled against him, and Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the NAACP, has been busy kicking the shins of the most friendly Postmaster General the Negro has ever had.

This is where the New Jersey election comes into the picture. It so happens that the candidate running for governor on the Republican ticket is James Mitchell, former Secretary of Labor. The name of the NAACP representative in Washington is also Mitchell. Names in politics are easily confused — as for example the treasurer of Massachusetts named Kennedy, who coasted to victory on the name of the President, and as per example Congressman Don Magnuson in Washington who coasted home on the popularity of Sen. Warren Magnuson.

Sen. Clifford Case, Republican of New Jersey, a good public servant, but not one to miss a political trick, has been holding press conferences in his office with Clarence Mitchell — of the NAACP — not ex-Secretary of Labor Mitchell. He has used these press conferences to sound off against the Kennedy Administration and Postmaster General Day, thereby helping another Mitchell in New Jersey.

This has made headline news in the Negro press; and the Negro vote is important in New Jersey. It gave Kennedy the margin of votes he needed to carry that state in 1960.

But this year, thanks to a Negro letter carrier in Savannah, the ingratitude of the NAACP, confusion over the name Mitchell, and the astute politics of Senator Case, it's expected that the Negro vote in New Jersey will go for Mitchell. This despite the fact that Mitchell, when Secretary of Labor, ousted the first Negro to hold little cabinet rank, J. Ernest Wilkins, in order to make room for the handsome son of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Note—The mistake which Postmaster General Day made in Savannah was in not firing Postman Law outright. Law had a bad record and the regional postal director recommended his dismissal. This was overruled by the appeals board, two to three, two of the three being Negroes. Day upheld the board, but issued an equivocal statement.

Jackie's Actions Echo

Jackie Kennedy, the elegant young first lady, doesn't seem to take her husband's advice to heart. The President has been earnestly counseling that every act of Americans echoes across the world.

Last Week Mrs. Kennedy created bad echoes for Uncle Sam and burned up a good many American women.

Some 700 Washington women, ranging from professional women to housewives, school girls to grandmothers, marched to the White House to present Mrs. Kennedy with a plea for both the U.S. and U.S.S.R. to halt the nuclear bomb race. Jackie was too busy to see them, and even her social secretary, Tish Baldrige, was "too busy." So a petition bearing the names of some 1,000 women had to be left with Sgt. John Robbins, a guard at the White House gate.

In contrast, the Russian Embassy rolled out the red carpet when the peace marchers came to present their petition. The petition was chiefly aimed at Khrushchev and his testing of the 50-megaton bomb. But three Soviet Embassy officials, two of them women, met the American women, talked with them for 45 minutes.

In Moscow earlier, Mrs. Khrushchev invited American peace marchers for tea.

This story has already hit the newspapers of neutral nations, which have commented on the "haughty indifference" of America's first lady.

Brass Vs. 'Little Men'

By John Crosby

The resignation of Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker is the most naked display to date of the growing power and arrogance of our generals and admirals. Gen. Walker said he was resigning to escape the power of "little men," presumably speaking of the Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr, who relieved him of his command of the 24th Division.

Gen. Walker's resignation followed by one day the apology by Gen. James A. Van Fleet to Adlai Stevenson for stating that he'd have fired Adlai Stevenson for his role in the Cuban invasion. (Gen. Van Fleet is renowned for his intemperate statements which the press has in general rather too kindly refrained from printing.)

Gen. Walker's impatience with "little men," which is another way of saying civilian control of the armed forces, is the most outspoken manifestation of a deep-seated and alarming change in the relationship between the military establishment and the rest of us "little men" who are nominally their bosses. Or were. The first to point out the dangerous and growing power of the military, aligned with big business, was our foremost general, President Eisenhower in his Farewell and, I think, best Address. In this speech, which got much too little notice at the time, President Eisenhower warned of the growing and terrible power of "the military-industrial complex," employing millions of men, wielding the power of billions of dollars, and developing an influence that, President Eisenhower said, is "felt in every city, every state house, every office of the federal government."

Just how huge this military establishment has got has just been blueprinted by Fred J. Cook in a special issue of "The Nation" called "Juggernaut — The Warfare State."

"When even a lifelong military man like Eisenhower becomes disturbed about the powers of the military, this would seem adequate cause for the rest of us to become genuinely alarmed," wrote Cook. He pointed out that the Defense Department's real estate holdings are now larger than the combined areas of Rhode Island, Delaware, Connecticut, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maryland, Vermont, and New Hampshire, and that military assets are greater than those of the combined assets of U.S. Steel, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, American Telephone & Telegraph, General Motors and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Eighty-six per cent of the 21 billion dollars in military procurement contracts are awarded without competitive bidding. "Time and again, military officers who have been the champions of a particular weapon or device in their official capacities retire and become well paid executives of the companies they have championed. The Hebert investigating committee in 1959-60 found more than 1,400 retired officers from the rank of majors up were employed in the top hundred corporations that split up three quarters of the 21 billion armaments pie."

Of this growing and alarming militarism, Sen. Ralph Flanders, Republican, of Vermont, said on the Senate floor: "It is not only that we are sacrificing to defense our standard of living and the free independence of our economic life. We are sacrificing our freedom itself. We are being forced to shift the American way of life into the pattern of a garrison state."

The military has long ago shed most of the civilian controls in determining the size and nature of the military establishment, its weapons, and its strategy — civilian heads and even Eisenhower being unable to cope with the Pentagon's massive strength and knowhow in these fields. But increasingly the High Brass is exhibiting great impatience at the dominance of civilians in political and diplomatic fields.

One of the most arrogant, jingoistic, and downright alarming recent military utterances, terribly revealing of the military mind which would dearly love to employ some of this hardware it has amassed at so much expense, is the policy statement of the Air Force Association, which is supported by the missile industry and mostly staffed by retired officers.

"Complete eradication of the Soviet system must be our national goal—our obligation to all free people," said the statement in part. In short, the military is declaring war on Russia and Red China right now in advance of Congress or the President. The other significant sentence, terribly revealing of the impatience of the High Brass with us "little people," is: "National policy must prescribe that the choice between nuclear and non-nuclear weapons is neither moral nor political but is essentially a military consideration."

In short, the Brass wants to be able to push the fateful button plunging mankind into thermonuclear war by itself without any annoying interference by the President or Congress. Adm. Radford wanted to drop the hydrogen bomb at Dienbienphu, but some annoying "little people," notably the President of the United States, stopped him cold. The Brass would like to get rid of this "moral and political" control and push the button when it chooses.

New Drug Aids Victims Of Hodgkin's Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Vinblastine sulfate (VLB) is one of the latest treatments of Hodgkin's disease. A group from the Marion County General Hospital in Indianapolis recently reported marked improvement in seven of 10 users. In six, the malady appears to be in a state of remission.

The drug was useful also in shrinking certain cancers of the breast, ovary, and pancreas. One patient with an extensive malignancy gained considerable weight after receiving three doses, and was able to return to work.

Hodgkin's disease is a neoplasm involving the lymph glands. It is detected usually by enlargement of the glands in the neck, first on one side and then the other. The glands are not tender and there is no infection in the nose and throat to explain their appearance.

In others, the lymph glands deep in the chest or abdomen are involved. Symptoms occur when the glands grow into neighboring structures, causing pressure. X-rays detect these lesions.

It is at this time that Hodgkin's assumes its malignant role. The tumor like cells actually invade the liver, bone marrow, stomach, kidney, lung, backbone, or spinal cord. The victim may complain of marked itching of the skin, loses weight, and becomes anemic, short of breath, or paralyzed.

The best remedies include X-ray therapy or the use of drugs such as nitrogen mustard or VLB. The outcome varies considerably. Best results are obtained if the diagnosis is made when only one or two enlarged glands are noted in the neck.

Dr. William Boyd cites the example of a medical student who graduated and engaged in active practice 22 years before dying from a heart attack. His neck glands were treated by radiation. Another patient was well 26 years after a gland was removed for biopsy and the area was treated with X-rays.

TOMORROW: Protection from carbon monoxide.

ARSENIC POISONING

L. W. writes: What symptoms occur if you are poisoned by arsenic in insecticides?

REPLY

Arsenic in dusts or powders produces dermatitis, including lesions on the palms of the hands. Other symptoms include swelling of the lids, sore throat, and laryngitis. More serious poisoning is followed by vomiting, abdominal pains, diarrhea, neuritis, headache, drowsiness, and dizziness.

EXPANDED WAISTLINE

T. K. writes: What would cause the waistline to increase three inches in three years? Otherwise, this person is not overweight.

REPLY

The middle-aged spread is a common cause. Fat tends to accumulate in this area, even in skinny people. The entire abdomen may enlarge from fluid, ovarian cysts, or glandular disorders. Examination would be needed to determine the cause.

ALCOHOL AND HEARING

A. L. writes: I wear a hearing aid and am anxious to know if beer, wine, or any alcoholic drink affects the hearing.

REPLY

Possibly, but by this time the

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Four magazine publishers boarded the same plane, bound for a convention in Florida. Two were seated together near the galley; the other two forward in the plane. The hostess served beverages. The two near the galley ordered highballs, then called the attention of the stewardess to their friends up front. "One of those men," she was told, "is an alcoholic who gets very nasty after a drink or two, the other man is his keeper, who never leaves his side." That's why, when the two publishers up front ordered whiskey, they got orange juice. They still think it had something to do with local ordinances.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter went away to college in September. She is 18 and sensible. Her dad and I eagerly await her letters, as you can understand.

Yesterday she wrote: "My roommate and I had a great time Saturday night. We went to George and Tom's apartment and fixed dinner. A I ever glad you made me learn how to cook. Mom! They were flabbergasted. After dinner we cleaned the place up and played bridge. It was a swell evening."

My husband hit the ceiling. He said the girls had no business going to the boys' apartment and that college life was going to turn our daughter into a little tramp. Is he right? Frankly, I didn't know what to say to him. Other mothers must write about this. What do you tell them?

—TTO
DEAR TTO: One of the nice things about going away to college is that the parents can't go along.

By the time a girl is 18 her pattern of behavior is fairly well set. If your daughter was properly raised you don't have to worry. If she wasn't, worrying won't help now.

Cooking dinners in apartments is part of college life. It offers the students relief from dormitory fare and affords the girls a chance to show off their domestic skills. It gets my O.K.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was 12 my father married a very nice woman. I was happy for him because my mother died when I was a baby and I knew Daddy was lonesome.

For reasons I don't understand the marriage didn't work out and two years later they separated. My stepmother moved to another city.

Now I am 16, and quite a grown up young man. There was no divorce so this woman is still my legal stepmother. Next month she is coming to this city to visit her parents. She has written and invited me to come to their home to see her. I asked Dad what he thought and he said it was all right with him.

Should I kiss her, shake hands—or what? She was very good to me and I liked her a great deal.

—GROWN UP
DEAR GROWN UP: Wait until you see her—then let your heart make the decision.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My brother and his family needed a place to live temporarily. We rented them our lovely two bedroom home at a very low figure. They seemed grateful and said they'd pay us back someday. Well—this is how they paid us back:

Last week they moved out. After 10 months the house is a shambles. My brother's daughter pounded 33 holes in her bedroom wall hanging up pictures of Fabian. The bathroom tile is cracked because their son produced a small explosion with a chemistry set. The lawn furniture is wrecked as it was left outside. Door-knobs are missing and two windows are broken.

We asked them to please put the house back in shape. They said, "This is the owners' responsibility."

Why are relatives such pigs? Shall we sue? —VJ

DEAR VJ: Strangers can behave like pigs, too. It's just worse when relatives do.

You should have had their promise in writing that they would leave the house in first class condition. Don't sue. It would be messy, expensive, and probably unavailing. (Copyright 1961 Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Intensified Program Against TB Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief of the U.S. Public Health Service's tuberculosis program called Sunday for greater nationwide efforts to eliminate tuberculosis as a major public health problem.

Dr. Edward T. Blomquist cited statistics showing that 55,494 new active cases of TB were reported in this country in 1960, a rate of almost 31 per 100,000 population.

"Although this represents a five per cent decline in rates from 1959, the drop is below that considered necessary to eliminate the disease as a major public health problem," Blomquist said.

He added in a statement: "With the combination of drugs that are potentially 90 per cent effective in treating people with newly discovered tuberculosis and with the protection offered to their families by isoniazid prophylaxis, we do not feel that an annual 10 per cent decline in new case rate is an unrealistic goal."

Mather Is Instrumental In Navy's Bid For National Recognition

Boots Eight Field Goals For Middies

Senior End Leading Pass Catcher, Does All Team's Punting

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The booming foot of end Greg Mather is keeping Navy in a bid for national ranking this year with a football team that wasn't supposed to have a chance.

The strapping senior from Woodland Hills, Calif. kicked his seventh and eighth field goals Saturday from distances of 42 and 21 yards to give the Middies a 13-10 upset over Notre Dame. He also notched his 20th extra point in as many tries.

For Mather, the longest gun Navy has ever had for a kicker, it was a fairly routine performance. He has booted vital field goals in five of Navy's first seven games and has missed only two tries all season. None has been for under 21 yards and the longest, for 45 yards in a losing effort against Penn State, set an academy record.

Leading Pass Catcher

He's also the leading pass catcher on the Middle squad, having dropped only one while snagging 16 for 199 yards and one touchdown, is a standout on defense in the Navy line, and does all of Navy's punting.

As a result Navy has a 5-2 record with a young team many figured might not be breaking even at this point.

"I seriously doubt there's an end in the country who can do so many things so well," coach Wayne Hardin said Monday in an appraisal of his All-America candidate.

"Any time we can get within shooting distance he's a threat, and shooting distance for him is anywhere across the 50. That takes a lot of pressure off our quarterbacks."

"He's kept us in every ball game except Pitt (a 28-14 Navy loss). His blocking has been mainly responsible for (halfback) Carl Fin's running success, and very few can turn his end on defense. He's performed like an all-america for us all season."

Mather kicked one field goal and a conversion in Navy's 20-10 loss to Penn State, six extra points and made a tackle in the end zone for a safety in the 44-6 win over William and Mary, one field goal and two extra points in a 17-6 upset of Miami, one field goal and four extra points in a 31-7 victory over Cornell, three field goals and four extra points in a 37-19 victory over Detroit and two extra points and caught a scoring pass in the Pitt loss.

Scores 50 Points

His 50 points lead Navy's scoring and rank him high among the nation's leading college scorers.

Although he's within five field goals of the national collegiate record set by Auburn's Ed Dyer last year, he entertains no hopes of breaking the record in Navy's last three games.

He thinks he has a much better chance at Dyer's other record of 51 points by a kicker in a season. Mather has 44 and he figures Navy will do enough scoring to give him a chance for extra point tries.

Committee To Meet

The committee to draft the 1961-62 schedule for the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League will meet at 7 p.m. on Thursday at the Y to complete final plans for the season which will get underway on November 18. Thirty teams are entered in the two-division circuit this year.

Minnesota-Iowa Game Heads Weekend Slate

Uniontown Duo Sparked Gophers To Win Over SMU

By GERRY NELSON

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's rocking, socking Gophers aren't harboring any illusions about white flags of truce flying at Iowa next Saturday.

The Gophers, fresh from a 13-0 trouncing of the nation's No. 1 team—Michigan State—journey to Iowa City to take on the Hawkeyes in a long-time rivalry season with the stingy memory of last year's Iowa loss to Minnesota.

"They're really gonna be waiting for us," said Bobby Lee Bell, a big tackle who bulwarks the Minnesota defense by managing to get in on most of the tackles anywhere on the field.

"I guess they haven't forgotten that game up here last year." Few have forgotten the game, Minnesota.

Campers Name Captains For Game At Beall

Harvey, Bowman Lead Team Friday

Mike Harvey and Jim Bowman, junior halfbacks, have been named as co-captains of Allegany High School's football team for the game with Beall High School Friday at 8 p.m., at Frostburg. Coach Edward Schwarz, of the Campers announced yesterday.

The Beall game will be the last for Allegany before the Campers' Thanksgiving Day with Fort Hill.

Allegany has beaten LaSalle, Frederick and Westminster in the last three outings and now owns a 4-4 record with two more games left on the schedule.

"This really has been an exciting season for us," Coach Schwarz remarked yesterday.

The Campers have lost one game by a single point, two by five points and one by the margin of seven points. They won by 12 over LaSalle, six over Keyser, and two by seven over Frederick and Westminster.

Schwarz is rounding out his fourth year as Allegany mentor and his teams have won 29 and lost nine.

Beall owns a 5-3 record this season. Coach Jerry Calhoun has been head coach of the Mountaineers for five years and his teams have won 26, lost 19 and played two tie games.

Since Beall revived football the Mountaineers have dropped 14 consecutive games to Allegany. Last year's score was 40-0.

Dr. W. A. Haines Will Protest Ruby's Action

Hopes To Renew Pact With Owls

Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, stated last evening that he is preparing a letter of protest to Stephen Lerda, Westminster principal, and also the Carroll county superintendent of school, in regard to Friday night's incident here in which Coach Herb Ruby, of Westminster, took his football team off the field in a game with Allegany because he was dissatisfied with the officiating.

Allegany was leading 20-13 in the final period when Ruby ordered his team off the field at Fort Hill Stadium and refused to finish the game.

Dr. Haines feels that as a teacher Ruby jeopardized his own position by his unsportsmanlike action.

Allegany has a two-year football contract with Westminster which expires next year and Dr. Haines said that Allegany is asking Westminster to renew the pact.

"Our series with Westminster has been an interesting one," Dr. Haines declared, "and we desire to keep it going."

The Allegany principal said that Ruby's action is certain to be one of the topics that will come up for discussion when the Cumberland Valley Athletic League holds its regular meeting on Monday, November 27, at Berkeley Springs. Stephen Lerda is president and Dr. Haines is secretary of the C.V.A.L.

West Virginia Has Intercepted Fifteen Passes

Mountaineers Play Penn State Next

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University Coach Gene Corum said Monday he couldn't recall when a WVU team had pulled off as many as 15 pass interceptions in eight games.

That's how many enemy passes Mountaineer gridders have snatched so far this season with John Burnison and Jim Moss leading the way with four each.

Corum put his regulars through a light drill in sweat clothes Monday with the rest of the varsity working out against the freshmen team in preparation for Saturday's game with Penn State.

The frosh squad was decked out in white jerseys similar to Penn State and individual freshman players wore jerseys with numbers the same as Nittany Lion regulars.

The Mountaineers came out of that 12-7 win over George Washington pretty good as far as injuries are concerned. Fullback Glenn Holton twisted his foot in the game but Corum said he'll be able to play against Penn State Saturday. Pete Goimaras is suffering from charley horse.

Corum said he is hopeful Roger Holdinsky will be able to play Saturday but said he is doubtful about linebacker John Bosley.

John Skinner will probably back up the line in place of Bosley. Corum said Skinner has played his best football of the year in the past several games.

Paul Derringer, former Cincinnati pitcher, now works for a national plastics firm.

Fred Etchen, 77, Noted Gunner, Dies In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Fred R. Etchen Sr., 77, internationally known trapshooter, died Monday in a Phoenix rest home.

Etchen, formerly of Sun Valley, Idaho, suffered from heart trouble. He retired from competition about five years ago.

The high point in Etchen's shooting career came in 1924 when he won the U.S. high average championship, the British Open and captained the U. S. Olympic team to victory in Paris.

A native of Coffeyville, Kan., Etchen opened a nationwide chain of shooting schools in 1939. When World War II erupted, he closed the schools and volunteered his instructors as military gunnery teachers.

Survivors include his widow, Ethel, and a son, Fred (Rudy) Jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Basketball Anniversary Is Observed

Cornerstone Laid For Hall Of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The 70th anniversary of the birth of basketball was observed Monday at Springfield College, where the game was devised and first played on a roughly market court with peach baskets for goals.

A special commemorative program honored the game's inventor, James Naismith, as well as some of the great players of the past and present.

Cornerstone Is Laid

A highlight of the activities was the laying of a cornerstone for the $400,000 Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame building.

Another high point was the issuance of a special four-cent commemorative stamp by the Post Office Department.

Assistant Postmaster General Ralph W. Nicholson issued the first stamps to members of the Naismith family, including two sons of the game's inventor: James S. Naismith of Corpus Christi, Tex., and John C. Naismith of Kansas City, Mo.

The chief speaker of the day, Dr. Glenn A. Olds, president of Springfield College, said "Confusion, contradiction and conformity are destroying the spirit that prompted Naismith to invent the game of basketball."

He decried what he termed the low state of professional sports which he said has led to basketball betting scandals.

More than 2,000 persons attended the ceremonies, among them Raymond P. Kaighn, 93, sole survivor of that first basketball game on Nov. 6, 1891. He received a standing ovation.

44 In Hall Of Fame

A total of 44 are now in the Basketball Hall of Fame. All but three of the living members were present today.

Naismith, a young instructor at the college in 1891, devised the game to keep his gym class busy on a cold New England fall day.

He posted a set of 13 rules on the gymnasium door and asked the janitor for two boxes to serve as goals.

The best the janitor could dig up were two peach baskets, nailed to each end of the gymnasium. Thus was the game of basketball born and named.

Foes Rack Up Davis States Syracuse Coach

Officials Said Lax In Calling Penalties

NEW YORK (UPI) — The manner in which rival teams pile on All-America halfback Ernie Davis is "sheer murder," Syracuse football coach Ben Schwartzwalder charged Monday in blaming officials for "great laxity" in calling penalties.

"Let Davis leave one inch exposed and they give it to him with knee or helmet," the former paratroop major asserted. "I always plead with the officials at half time but they haven't called one piling on penalty in the last three games."

Davis is the number one target on the Syracuse team, Schwartzwalder explained, "because he's our team this year and it seems like we've been the 'bad guys' since 1959." That year unbeaten Syracuse also toppled Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

Because of rival attentions — and the constant piling on — Schwartzwalder said that in three games Davis was unable to raise his right arm and has had to be swatched in heavier pads in an effort to protect him from more serious injury.

Schwartzwalder told of complaining to a Pitt player as Syracuse won, 28-9, on Saturday.

"Pitt's number 78 (233-pound tackle Gary Kaltenbach) was really racking Davis up," said the Syracuse coach. "So once when he came near me on the sidelines I told him 'Don't kill Davis. We've got three more games left.'"

"That big number 78 laughed at me," Schwartzwalder grinned, "and actually did ease off."

The Syracuse coach says that in every game he has approached the officials at halftime to plead for a more careful watch against piling on, which calls for a 15-yard penalty.

"I've told them to throw that flag," he said. "Not only against the opposition but against us, too, if we're guilty. But there has been great laxity on their part in calling it. Proof is that it hasn't been called once in the last three games."

"That proves," he added wryly, "that the other teams must be well-coached. I suppose."

3 Sentenced In Entry Of Guard Armory

Two Get Terms In Penitentiary

Two Californians and a New York state resident who were charged with breaking and entering the National Guard Armory at Frostburg last month were sentenced to Maryland institutions yesterday by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Elmer K. Nicely Jr., 23, and Robert C. Richards, 25, of Pacoma, Calif., who entered a plea of not guilty, were found guilty by a petit jury and sentenced by Judge Harris to two years in the Maryland penitentiary.

The third defendant, Alton Lance, 18, of Adams, N. Y., who entered a plea of guilty to breaking and entering the Armory on October 18, was sentenced to a term not to exceed one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Half-Hour Deliberation
The petit jury, which deliberated about half an hour yesterday afternoon, found Nicely and Richards guilty of breaking and entering and not guilty of larceny and receiving stolen goods, the second and third counts of criminal informations on which they were tried.

The testimony was completed about noon yesterday and closing arguments concluded about 2:20 p. m. when the jury got the case.

The sum of $42.48 was reported stolen from the armory where entrance was gained by forcing a basement door. The money was taken from vending machines in the building.

One valuable piece of evidence found at the scene was the strap torn from a glove belonging to one of the three. The strap was found behind a soft drink machine.

Defense Motion Denied
Following testimony by the arresting officers and authorities who investigated the case, a motion for dismissal of the charges was made by John M. Robb, court-appointed counsel for Nicely and Richards who argued that the uncorroborated testimony of Lance was not sufficient evidence on which to base the charges.

The motion was denied by Judge Harris following rebuttal of the move by State's Attorney James S. Getty.

When the case was resumed, Richards and Nicely were called to testify, each stating that they were in Frostburg on the evening the breaking and entering occurred, and that they had been skating at the armory during the early hours of the evening.

They also stated they had driven back to a motel, located some 35 miles west of Frostburg, and had spent the evening there sleeping.

The three were arrested during the early afternoon of October 19 by Assistant Chief Lester Bevans of Frostburg when they returned to that community. Chief Bevans testified that he had asked the men to identify themselves, and then requested them to go to the police station for questioning.

The contents of their pockets, including a number of dimes, resulted in their arrest, Chief Bevans said. He explained that such coins were removed from various vending machines by the armory intruders.

Man Found Guilty In Juvenile Case

Howard O. Larry, 56, of 11 East First Street, yesterday was committed to the County Jail for 30 days in default of a $100 fine imposed at a hearing in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin fined Larry after finding him guilty of contributing to the delinquency of three minor boys.

Detective Harry Isner arrested Larry and charged him with buying liquor for a 16-year-old boy and two 15-year-old youths.

Magistrate Fatkin also issued stern warnings to the boys and told them he did not ever want to see them in court again.

Cuffy Stops Production

Production stopped at the Biltwell Fabricating Company, North Branch, as Cuffy, the 185-pound mascot of County United Fund, visited employees there in recognition of their achievement of exceeding their CUF goal and signing up 100 per cent to support 31 health, social service and youth agencies in the area. Those Statler, John Abbott and Robert Adams. Biltwell is one of several small industries whose workers are doing a big job for CUF.

New, Small Industry Aids CUF

Although seven large industries of the area account for a major part of the County United Fund campaign total each year, Duard H. Little, general chairman, pointed out last night that the newer and smaller industries of the area are doing "a magnificent job" in meeting their community responsibilities.

Typical of the efforts of the small industries, CUF officials point out, is that of the Biltwell Fabricating Company, one of the newest small plants in the area, located at North Branch.

Biltwell employees, after hearing CUF explained by Woodward D. Pealer, a special captain of the Cumberland Classified Division, oversubscribed their goal and signed up 100 per cent in support of the CUF drive.

Owned by Frank J. Graham, Beaver, Pa., and managed by Matthew Colaianni, the plant is now engaged in manufacture of furnace fittings. Recently it completed a contract for Army trailers, and has plans in the making for building a machine shop for handling bigger jobs.

Formerly located at Midland, Pa., Biltwell moved here during the past year.

Electronic Federal Income Tax Center Dedicated At Martinsburg

By EDWARD COWAN
MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—An electronic "nervous center" which will ferret out cheaters as it scans all tax returns made its debut here Monday.

It is the Internal Revenue Service's national computer center, an array of whirling electronic marvels housed in a new $750,000 one-story, brick building the size of a huge supermarket.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon, who flew here to dedicate the center, said it will make life "far more difficult for the foolish few who are tempted to cheat or to evade."

The center is the core of an automatic data processing system the IRS is gradually putting into use.

Taxpayers will continue to fill out the same forms they have been using. But instead of spot-checking returns, the IRS will give all of them—from individuals and business firms—an electronic review. It will disclose much unreported income and other deficiencies.

The Martinsburg center is scheduled to start checking business tax returns from seven Southern states in January. A year later it also will review individual returns from those states and business returns from Middle Atlantic states.

By 1966, according to Internal Revenue commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin, returns of every taxpayer in the nation will be checked.

Monday there were 14 people at work in the new computer center. By January, when the center will start processing its first returns, the payroll will be about 150.

In two years it will be about 170. Perhaps two-thirds of the center's staff will be recruited from Martinsburg and nearby communities, where unemployment is said to be high.

Dillon hailed the center as "a giant stride" toward collecting all taxes owed Uncle Sam. The Treasury estimates some $25 billion of income is unreported each year. Taxes on this sum might come to $5 billion.

The computer will make possible earlier mailing of 36 million refund checks a year. It also will

Missing Man Found Dead

The badly decomposed body of a 41-year-old Bedford County, Pa., man was found yesterday afternoon by two Johnstown hunters.

Authorities are investigating the death of Glenn Carson of RD 1, New Paris, whose body was found about 4:30 p. m. in East Clare Township on the property of Robert McGowen, about five miles north of Bedford off Route 56.

James Hannan and Charles Rogers of Johnstown found the badly decomposed body and authorities surmise the man had been dead a couple of months.

A rusty shotgun was found nearby. The corner of Bedford County and Pennsylvania State Police are conducting an investigation in an attempt to learn the cause of death.

City To Begin Cleaning Silt From Canal Bed

Parks Unit To Help Prepare Rec Area

The City of Cumberland today will begin cleaning silt and debris from a 2,000-foot section of the C & O Canal here which is to be developed into a recreation area in cooperation with the National Parks Service.

A front end loader will be put to work in the area between Offutt Street and the foot of Roberts Street this morning.

The work will be done under the supervision of City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

Plans call for moving the equipment into the bed of the canal and depositing the silt in lofts between the canal and the paralleling street.

Mr. Nuzum said that if the front end loader does not prove satisfactory, it will be necessary to remove the silt by a back hoe working from the towpath.

He said he is notifying Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C & O Canal National Historical Park project, that the city is proceeding with its contribution.

Last week, Mr. Dale told city officials the Parks Service will provide laborers if the city furnishes equipment to clean the canal bed from debris which was washed in from nearby streets during the past two decades.

The second phase of the project calls for the construction of small dams to allow rewetting of the area, so it can be used for an ice skating area during winter.

Stocking the area with fish is also being proposed.

Non-Farmers Eligible For Farm Loans

Families living in small rural communities and in rural areas, even though not engaged in farming, may now be eligible for the housing loans made by the Farmers Home Administration, said B. Beeson Snyder, the agency's county supervisor for Allegany and Garrett counties.

The Housing Act of 1961 broadened the eligibility requirements for rural housing loans. As a result, owners of non-farm tracts in rural areas and in small rural communities of not more than 2,500, as well as farmers, may be eligible for this type of credit, he said.

The county supervisor of the FHA will review building plans and inspect the housing constructions as it progresses in order to make certain that the borrower obtains sound and acceptable construction.

Orval C. Giotfelty, RD 1, Accident, Cecil E. Bittinger, RD 2, Oakland, and Oscar G. Harman, RD 2, Accident, are members of the area committee of the FHA which determines the eligibility of applicants.

Detailed information concerning this program can be obtained at the FHA office, Garrett National Bank Building, in Oakland.

"This program is an important new tool in promoting the development of rural areas," Mr. Snyder said. "Rural housing loans will not only help families obtain better homes but will put more carpenters, plumbers, and electricians to work, and will increase the sales in lumber yards and building supply firms."

Housing loans are made for the construction, repair, and remodeling of dwellings and essential farm buildings and to provide water for farmstead and household use.

In addition to major construction, funds are available to modernize homes—add bathrooms, central heating, modern kitchens, and other home improvements, as well as to enlarge and remodel farm service buildings and put in related facilities such as paved feedlots, yard fences, and driveways.

Rural housing loans may also be used for the construction of fallout and storm shelters.

The interest rate is 4 per cent per year on the unpaid balance of the loan. Loans may be scheduled for repayment over periods up to 33 years.

The proposed housing must be adequate to meet the family's needs, yet modest in size and design.

To be eligible an applicant must own a farm or a building site in a rural area; be without decent, safe and sanitary housing; be unable to obtain the needed credit from other sources; and be without sufficient resources to provide the necessary housing on his own account. He must also have or be able to obtain sufficient income to meet payments on existing debts, take care of his other expenses, and make the payments on the proposed loan.

At present, the IRS pays the International Business Machines Company a minimum rental of $344.520 a year for the computer. Payments for overtime use, as it is incurred, probably will boost the sum well over $50
